- Pulau Redang – Redang Island has been increasingly growing in stature as a dive destination, long popular with Malaysian divers and now gaining a deserved international reputation. The conditions here are perfect for nurturing corals and promoting healthy marine life with perfect substrates and clear water, with temperatures ranging from 27 to 31.5°C. The reefs of the Redang archipelago consist of more than 55 genera of corals, with twice the number of species of fish populating the reefs. Of course this means the diving experience here is also very pleasant and interesting. Fish to look out for are snappers, jacks, rabbit fish, silver barracudas, clownfish, triggerfish and parrotfish. Turtles are a common sighting and you may also spot the occasional cuttlefish, squid and eagle ray. Feathers tans, hydroids, black coral, anemones sea fans and sponges dominate the reefs here. For macro-lovers there are also nudibranchs, mantis shrimps and occasional Spanish dancers.

Snorkelling at Redang Island Marine Park – without meal (GRED-3CA)Duration: approx. 3-4 hours (including travelling time)*Price: SGD$45 per Adult, SGD$30 per Child

PARTICIPANTS REQUIRED: MIN 30 PAX & MAX 160 PAX

- Pulau Redang Marine Park. For non-divers, the best way to enjoy the beauty of the marine environment in Redang is to snorkel. Redang offers a safe and family-friendly snorkelling experience with its clear, calm waters. You'll be amazed at what you can see: schools of hump head parrotfish, squid, sea snakes, baby black tip sharks, stingrays, giant groupers, moray eels, turtles, sea cucumbers, starfish and many other different species of fish, hard and soft coral.
The Marine Park Centre is the most popular snorkelling destination. At 3-6m deep, the area around the jetty at the Marine Park Centre in Pulau Redang is covered mainly with hard corals and offers easy access to a large variety of marine life that are resident among the PVC pipes of the artificial reef directly under the jetty – the most popular being the resident giant grouper and moray eel. This place has the largest concentration of fishes in any single location probably due to the fact that many visitors feed the fish. Expect plenty of hungry damselfish, sergeant majors, wrasses, parrotfish and the resident triggerfish seeking food handouts from visitors. Just be careful not to get your fingers mistaken for food! Napoleon wrasses are occasionally spotted to the west of the jetty, as are adult black tip sharks.
- This excursion includes a life jacket, snorkel mask and boat transfers to the Marine Park.
